

Young People's Ballet Theatre Presents . . .

Goodnight
Moon

Bottom of the Ninth

Join the dancers of YPBT as we present a fun-filled evening of dance. This year's production includes two ballets, March 7-10th, at the University of Michigan Flint Theatre

"Bottom of the Ninth" brings the world of 1940's women's baseball to life, with entertaining music, dancing, and acting. Conceived and choreographed by Dale Brannon, formerly of Stuttgart Ballet, the ballet is sure to entertain you. Mr. Brannon has choreographed several original ballets on YPBT, including last year's production of "Heidi."

Second on the program, our dancers will tell Margaret Wise Brown's "Goodnight Moon" through beautiful dancing. With choreography by Joe Curry, formerly of North Carolina Dance Theatre, this production will delight everyone who has ever read this classic story. The costumes, scenery and effects are truly magical.

Guest artist Alan Obuzor will be joining our dancers again this year in the roles of "Allstar Player" and "The Dreamweaver." Mr. Obuzor danced professionally with Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, is Artistic Director and founder of Texture Contemporary Ballet, and has recently been named one of Dance Magazine's "25 to Watch." Don't miss this opportunity to see a fantastic dancer at the height of his artistry.

This will be our first major production led by new artistic directors Nicholas and Laura Schultz. Both are current dancers with Grand Rapids Ballet. Their leadership has infused YPBT with youthful energy and our dancers benefit tremendously from their professional experience. This year's production will continue YPBT's long tradition of creative story-telling, polished and inspired dancing, handcrafted costumes, full sets and scenery.

Tickets:

810.309.9501

$12 Adults, $10 Children

YPBT is a 501c3 nonprofit organization
ypbt.org

University of Michigan Flint Theatre

Thursday, March 7th, 6:30pm

Friday, March 8th, 7:00pm

Saturday, March 9th, 2:00pm

Saturday, March 9th, 7:00pm

Sunday, March 10th, 3:00pm